Better Results HAPPIER PATIENTS

QUEEN STREET DENTAL'S JOURNEY WITH NSK POWDER THERAPY

For the team at Queen Street Dental, preventive care isn't just routine – it's where patient trust begins. Their approach centres on good oral hygiene instruction, practical diet advice, and maintaining appropriate, regular hygiene visits to keep long-term health on track. That's why they've embraced powder therapy with NSK's Perio-Mate and Prophy-Mate neo, air-polishing systems that redefine comfort, efficiency, and confidence in every hygiene appointment.

Before introducing NSK's air-polishing systems, the clinic faced a few frustrations. Traditional polishing methods often struggled to remove stubborn stains, and when periodontal pockets exceeded 5 mm, clinicians couldn't be fully confident in the results of conventional scaling. After hearing positive feedback from peers, the team decided to explore powder therapy using the NSK Prophy-Mate neo and, more recently, the NSK Perio-Mate. "We heard how effective it was, and we've found that to be true," said Dr Robert King.

"We heard how effective
it was, and we've found that to be true"

– Dr Robert King

With the NSK Prophy-Mate neo now a mainstay in their hygiene workflow, the difference has been immediate, "we're seeing better results, it's a lot more efficient, and patients like the change – it feels modern and new." Although their NSK Perio-Mate journey has only just begun, early impressions are promising, "It's improving how we treat deeper pockets and helping us be more confident with periodontal cases."

The team describes powder therapy as fast, efficient, and rewarding – for both clinician and patient. "The stain removal results are excellent. If any calculus has been missed, it's easy to spot while using the Prophy-Mate neo. When we see a heavily stained case come in, we just think, 'no problem.'"

While some patients were initially surprised by the water and powder sensation, most have quickly embraced the new experience once they see the results. Queen Street Dental's recommendation is simple, "Contact NSK and test it. You'll see the difference."
